Re PQ 2784/21

To ask the Minister for Health the previously mentioned gambling addiction support services funded by the HSE; the funding streams they are supported under; and the way in which similar services can apply for this funding.

Dear Deputy Gould,

The Health Service Executive has been requested to reply directly to your above Parliamentary Question which you submitted to the Minister for Health for response. I have examined the matter and the following outlines the position:

The HSE has received no specific funding from the Department of Health to provide or commission support services for gambling addiction.

Our HSE Addiction and Section 39 funded Services have been traditionally funded to treat problematic Drug and Alcohol use however some cases of problematic gambling have been provided with treatment within existing resources. Interventions provided to those presenting with gambling addiction include one to one counselling, financial advice and onward referral to other voluntary groups including Gamblers Anonymous.

The guide for small agencies wishing to apply for HSE funding is available on the Web site on the following link:

<https://www.hse.ie/eng/services/publications/non-statutory-sector/guide-for-small-agencies-version-6-november-2020.doc>. The application processes exist for agencies to apply to the HSE for funding to support services which seek to improve, promote and protect the health and welfare of the public, however it should be noted that funding is limited and most will be committed to existing services.

Specific funding streams exist which may be open to new applications annually

1. National Lottery

For grants provided under the National Lottery scheme, the HSE advertise the availability of the funding, the application criteria and process in the local and national press on an annual basis.

All the applications are co-ordinated and assessment criteria are utilised to prioritise these within the available funding.

2. Development funding for specific services.

For new service developments, service specifications are agreed and where applicable, there may be local partnership fora to prioritise those clients with an assessed need for services within the available funding. The HSE then manage the process for the delivery of the services to the prioritised clients. Various options are considered including:

- Supplying the service directly through HSE facilities;
- Tendering for the provision of the service;
- Utilising a preferred supplier if the client group are best served by this route and costs are within market norms;
- Application route from existing providers.

3. Local Community Health Organisation area grants

These grants may be available annually within a community health organisation area, and may also include “in kind” supports such as accommodation, training, possible secondment of staff/ provision of assistance and/or advice by HSE staff on work the non-statutory agency is undertaking. These Grants are made each year however many are paid on a recurring basis. These are open to community groups/non statutory agencies who are providing non acute services which support improve, promote and protect the health and welfare of the public.

Organisations may make application to the HSE through either their Local Community Health Organisation Area or the relevant national care group division. Contact details are available on the HSE Website – www.hse.ie under Find a Health Service;

These applications will then be considered, within the context of the prioritised needs of the population, and the availability of funding. While the criteria below is not exhaustive, the application process will include an assessment of:

- Evidence of performance in previous years;
- Capacity to deliver;
- A validation of the identified need for the services/activities using evidence based justification;
- The proposed service or activity should have explicit objectives on throughput and outcomes;
- The extent to which the current services provided by the non-statutory agency meets current Service Plan priorities and/or strategic directions of the HSE;
- The extent of demonstrated commitment to relevant quality standards;
- The outcome of previous evaluation of services or activities provided or engaged in by the non-statutory agency;
- A thorough examination of estimates/financial costings will take place and the extent to which the application represents value for money and the financial performance of the provider will be assessed;
- The adequacy of governance and accountability arrangements, including adequacy of internal audit and internal controls commensurate with the nature and scale of the non-statutory agency's operations.

Where the grant provided is of a capital nature, the non-statutory provider must formally agree to engage in the HSE process to protect the State's interest and the HSE shall not progress the capital funding application until this commitment is formally obtained from the provider in question.
