Making sense of rapid, emergent change - Covid-19

Delivering good change practices is critical right now to benefit from the rapid pace of change and innovation in response to Covid-19. Disruption is a positive force for change that needs personal and team agility to make sense of it. Covid-19 is part of our on-going reality. Working together to give effect to a just and resilient recovery is a shared responsibility.

Key to recovery and renewal is how we:

Invest in People & Teams

(pgs 25-26 Change Guide)

- Recognise teams as the core unit of service delivery.
- Build on the collective resilience and creativity of the team to adjust, adapt and respond.
- Prioritise staff health and wellbeing – caring for those that care for others, acknowledge the impact of change in practices for staff.
- Demonstrate respect for how services were delivered and blend this with the 'new' learning on what can be improved.

Adapt & Act

- Tap into recent rapid adaption and new practices at team level and agree what has worked well and can be sustained.
- Intensify supports to individuals and intact teams building on the collective strength of shared learning and pride in what has been achieved to date.
- Activate diverse teams to focus on problem solving and provide people with opportunities to share their experiences and insights.
- Focus on the skills and workforce required to reform services – agree creative ways to deploy staff to high-need areas.
- Increase the emphasis on enabling staff to be become more digitally fluent to keep up with the pace of change.
